Become a Career Mentoring Partner
We are recruiting companies to join a fun and rewarding Career Mentoring Program to help empower and motivate high school students to higher academic success.

The goal of Mentor Foundation USA’s Career Mentoring Program is to ensure that students are prepared for post-secondary education, trade schools, or entry-level professional success. We encourage your company to invest in the future of our nation’s youth. By investing in Mentor Foundation USA and being a Career Mentoring company, you will make a difference in the lives of both underserved high school students in your community and your employees.

The program curriculum supports healthy decision-making in young people by providing them with professional adult mentors who can listen, guide, and provide meaningful opportunities.

At the end of the program, participating students will have the opportunity to apply for scholarships of up to $40,000 per student from an exclusive scholarship fund allocated to this program by the SFIG Foundation.

These scholarships funded by the SFIG Foundation with support from Scholarship America ensure financial support for underserved students seeking higher education or career training. This initiative also connects scholarship winners to the expansive network of SFIG members via internships and other career opportunities.

Join us in building brighter futures for youth!
Mentoring can attract new talent

Mentor Foundation USA views prevention and youth development as a collective responsibility; therefore, we partner with the business community, government agencies, schools and parents to create healthy and productive pathways for youth.

WHY MENTOR?

The harm being inflicted upon individuals, families, and society by substance abuse has reached epidemic proportions and is continuing to grow substantially each year. In the United States, there were 72,000 overdose deaths in 2017. Drug overdoses are the leading cause of accidental death in the United States.

Youth are especially vulnerable to engaging in risk behaviors and thus developing substance use disorders, which have life altering consequences. Most alcohol and drug problems begin in adolescence; youth who don’t use alcohol, nicotine, or marijuana before the age of 21 are unlikely to initiate drug use after that age.

Research shows that the part of the human brain responsible for judgment does not mature until a person reaches age 25. During the vulnerable period of development that precedes this, all youth can benefit from the guidance of a mentor to support sound decision-making and mitigate risk behaviors, especially youth from underserved communities where protective factors are often fewer.

Research shows that young males lacking a male role model are 50% more likely to abuse drugs, while young females with no female role model are significantly more likely to drink excessively.

The benefits of mentoring are vast and include improved attendance and attitude toward school, decreased substance use, improved social skills and interactions with peers, increased connectedness to school, parents, and peers, and increased likelihood of continuing to higher education.

Students who meet with a mentor on a regular basis are 52% less likely than their peers to skip a day of school and 46% less likely to start using illegal drugs.

Even though prevention policies and programs are viewed as highly cost-effective, reducing health care costs and improving productivity, less than 6% of the total Federal Budget for substance abuse prevention and treatment is allocated to prevention. Corporations can play a key part in filling this funding void.
